Compare your Children's Shoes
with these and see the great advantages of the Start-Rite. Do your children's ankles show a tendency to bend inwards? That little extension of the heel in a Start-Rite shoe gives a firm foundation that will prevent it. Are you sure their insteps will develop as they should? This support and the extension of the stiffener underneath the instep will ensure them graceful feet in after years.
Call and examine a Start-Rite boot or shoe and see the difference for yourself.

This diagram indicates the extension of the ordinary leather Stiffener you can feel in any shoe. The little extension prevents the instep dropping.
This shows the extension on the inside of the boot that prevents ankles bending inwards.

N.U.R. DECREASED MEMBERSHIP

An official return of the membership of the National Union of Railwaymen shows a decrease up to the end of last year of 71,767, compared with 1920. The present total is 361,000. The highest membership since the amalgamation of the Union in 1913 was reached in 1919, when the total went up to 481,021. The Railway Review says—

The greatest comparative loss is in Ireland, generally unstable in her allegiance to English unions, where, in the South, the Irish unions are absorbing many of the young members. Dismissals, short time, and other factors have been the greatest decrease is among shopmen, who may have found a home elsewhere or were merely slot members.

Books of the Week.

THE TORCH-BEARERS.

Mr. Alfred Noyes has essayed a daring task in trying to tell in verse the story of scientific discovery. This volume—on astronomical science—is the first of a trilogy and, if the succeeding volumes are completed at a similar high level, they will bid fair to be placed alongside, not those commonplace versified treatises of the Golden Age, but the Bucolics of Virgil or Lucretius's poem on nature. For such a sustained effort blank verse is essential, and Mr. Noyes, a poet of a fine lyrical vein, has shown great restraint in allowing himself only an occasional incursion into the lyric.

The introduction explains how the idea was born from a night spent in the great American Observatory on the Sierra Madre Mountains. Instead of the epic of "blind, blood-bolstered kings," why should he not sing of the nobler war, "this long battle for the night"? From this point the poem falls into clearly defined divisions, telling of the slight advance made in turn by every discoverer ere he handed on the torch of knowledge to his successor in the race—Copernicus; the mystic Dane, Tycho Brahe, Kepler, Galileo, Newton, and the two Herschels. Mr. Noyes is not content with a superficial study. He has sifted the legendary stuff that has grown up round the life-history of some of these great men, and gives us his own version—for instance, the much-doubted recantation by Galileo of his own theories.

There is a subtle undercurrent running through the entire poem which gives it cohesion—the carrying of the torch; the love for music and poetry, that many of these discoverers had, indicating some relation between the mathematical regularity of astronomy and the harmony of music; the humility of genius. These discoveries lead not to agnosticism, but to belief:—

"What is all science then
It is man's age-long struggle to draw near
His Maker, learn His thoughts, discern His law.
. . . . . .
I seem a child that, wandering all day long
Upon the sea-shore, gathers here a shell,
There a pebble, coloured by the waves,
While the great ocean of truth, from sky to sky
Stretches before him, boundless, unexplored."

We like those glimpses, which we are given, into the home-life of these torch-bearers. Tycho married the peasant-maiden Christine, though himself of royal birth. Milton visited the blind Galileo and found in him his type of Samson Agonistes. William Herschel was a music-master before he became an astronomer. The dramatic story of Le Verrier and Adams, who, unknown to one another, worked out their tables till they found simultaneously the planet Neptune, loses nothing of its intensity in Mr. Noyes's fine blank verse.

Towards the conclusion comes the song of the planets in their courses. It is a subject of such epic vastness that the heart of man hardly can conceive it, much less express it in verse. Mr. Noyes barely touches on it, but the opening verse of "The Sun" gives one the idea of its terror and majesty—

"Light, on the far faint planets that attend me!
Light! but for me—the fury and the fire,
My white-hot mutations, the red storms that rend me
Can you smell them still the harvest they desire."

"The Torch-Bearers." By Alfred Noyes. Edinburgh: Blackwood. 7/6 net.

JUNGLE ADVENTURES.

Asked to name the ideal occupation, nine out of ten boys and not a few men would at once answer, "Big game hunting." They would agree, if you put it to them, that even more exciting than shooting wild animals must be the work of capturing them alive. I do not suppose that Mr. Charles Mayer is the first to follow that profession, though few can have followed it with greater or better deserved success. But he is certainly the first man to write a book about it—a book moreover that beats the best novel ever written for sheer gripping interest. It is more than likely, indeed, that, if Mr. Mayer had been a professional writer, he never could have made "Trapping Wild Animals in Malay Jungles" half as interesting or have given it the utter ring of truth that pervades it.

Mr. Mayer was brought up, as he tells us, in a hard school, having run away from his American home at the age of seventeen to become a circus hand. It was the wild animals that drew him, and it was not long before he found his feet, first as a buyer and then as a trapper and trader of wild beasts. His charm is his complete lack of self-conscious vanity. He tells us how he "grafted" when a circus property man—it was the custom—and how the circus hands "toe-staked" four bad men who shot up the circus in Albuquerque, New Mexico, and buried them during the performance,

NEWBURY.

TO-DAY'S SELECTIONS.

A very fine programme has been arranged for Newbury Spring fixture, of which owners have taken full advantage, the entries being in some instance of a plethoric nature. For the Beckhampton Plate on to-day's card we find no fewer than eighty-eight subscribers to a £200 plate. The Greenham Stakes of 2,000 sovs, is the most important event of the week, and Their Majesties, who have a personal interest in Weathervane, have intimated their intention to witness the race. I am informed that this colt has come on immensely since his fourth to Sicyon last October, and his trainer is hopeful that he will follow in the footsteps of Minoru. He has a strong opposition, and I expect to see Lemlach come out the best. My full selections are:—

Juvenile Plate—Beppi colt.
Compton Plate—Matoppo.
Greenham Stakes—Lemlach.
Chieverly Handicap—John Green.
Berkshire Handicap—Cottrill's selected.
Beckhampton Plate—Cottrill's selected.

GOOD SPORT AT LINGFIELD.

SMART DISPLAY BY DISCOBOLUS.

ROMAN FIDDLE SCORES.

Visitors to Lingfield could not complain as to the quality of the sport provided. Huge fields do not always provide the most interesting racing, but in this instance the sport of the class was decidedly good. The going will suit fields are sure to be large. The going will not be so soft as one might expect, in view of the rain and snow that have fallen in the district lately. There have been showers of snow to-day, and the air is very cold. On his running at Lincoln Grey Monk, if he runs, is sure to command strong support for the Catterick Handicap, but if Weatherbride is running to last season's back-end form he should about win. All Clear ran well enough at Lincoln to suggest his chance in the North Riding Handicap. My selections are:—

North Riding Handicap—All Clear.

CATTERICK.

RUNNERS AND FANCIES

RICHMOND, Thursday.

Racing in the far North of England opens this year with Catterick Bridge Meeting, instead of Newcastle. There is not much class among the entries, though they are strong numerically. All the same, the sport should be interesting, as fields are sure to be large. The going will not be so soft as one might expect, in view of the rain and snow that have fallen in the district lately. There have been showers of snow to-day, and the air is very cold. On his running at Lincoln Grey Monk, if he runs, is sure to command strong support for the Catterick Handicap, but if Weatherbride is running to last season's back-end form he should about win. All Clear ran well enough at Lincoln to suggest his chance in the North Riding Handicap. My selections are:—

Zetland Plate—Sand Castle.
Horsley Castle Plate—Carsholme.
New Stand Handicap—Royal Fancy.
North Riding Handicap—All Clear.
Catterick Handicap—Weatherbride.
Craven Plate—Greenwell.

1.30—ZETLAND PLATE, £200. Second £30, third £10. 5f.

Reason Prevails.

We have insisted, in spite of many discouragements, that a conference between the two Irish Governments must leave matters better than it found them. Our faith, we rejoice to say, has been justified—and more than justified. The London Conference sat for two days, and in that short time it was able to take decisions of the happiest omen for the future peace of Ireland. At eleven o'clock last night Mr. Churchill read the terms of the new agreement to a delighted House of Commons. They have reached us too late for considered comment; but, indeed, comment is almost unnecessary. The terms speak for themselves: they represent a large-minded and courageous effort to remove all the existing causes of strife between North and South and to lay the foundations of a national settlement. The first part of the agreement deals with the condition of Belfast. Southern Irishmen will admit gratefully that Sir James Craig and his colleagues have made the most ample concessions to their claims and fears. From to-day peace is declared between the two Governments and the restoration of order in Belfast becomes their common concern. Henceforward one-half of the members of the Special Police in "mixed" districts will be Roman Catholics. The Roman Catholic recruits will be selected by a Roman Catholic committee, and other guarantees are furnished that the law will be administered with the strictest impartiality. Expelled Roman Catholics will be restored to their homes, and one-third part of a grant of £500,000 from the Imperial Government will be employed for their benefit. Present political prisoners on both sides will be released. The Southern Government has promised that the activities of the Irish Republican Army in the six counties shall cease. We assume that, in accepting this undertaking, Sir James Craig recognises that Mr. Griffith can speak only for those sections of the Army which acknowledge his authority; but the Provisional Government's task will be simplified immensely by the new terms. Most hopeful of all is the agreement between the two Governments to approach the boundaries question in a spirit of true statesmanship. After the Free State has been established by law, but before the Northern Government takes any step to secede from it, the Irish leaders will confer again with the object of finding a basis of national unity or, at least, of avoiding the dangerous deadlock of the Boundary Commission. Good Irishmen in North and South will thank God for this agreement. The representatives of both Irish Governments have done a splendid service to their country, and Mr. Winston Churchill's contribution to Irish peace may prove to have been the most distinguished achievement of his whole career.

The Allies and Russia.

As the date of the Genoa Conference approaches, the importance of the part which Russia will play in this much-advertised assembly is becoming more and more apparent. When M. Briand agreed, after that historic game of golf at Cannes, to allow the representatives of the Soviet Government to come to Genoa, he gave a new orientation to international politics. Up to that moment Moscow had been ostracised by Christendom. Mr. Lloyd George's futile attempt to secure a conference at Prinkipo proved that the majority of the civilised nations was opposed resolutely to anything in the nature of an overture to Bolshevism, and some people were simple enough to believe that Russia would remain in Coventry for ever. The die, however, was cast at Cannes. Lenin and his comrades are going to Genoa next month, and there is no doubt that on their attitude the success or failure of the conference largely will depend. The French Premier has stipulated very definitely that, while the Allies may talk, and even make contracts, with Lenin's Government, they must not "recognise" it in any way. Mr. Lloyd George was inclined to be somewhat less unbending in his attitude; but, apparently, he has been taken to task by Messrs. Chamberlain and Churchill, with the result that, while he will secure his vote of confidence in the House of Commons next week, he will go to Genoa, more or less pledged to refuse any kind of "recognition" to the Bolsheviks.

The American policy of "no truck with the Bolsheviks" is easy to understand, and there is much to be said in its favour. The German policy of straightforward recognition also is logical, and there is something to be said in its favour as well. The Allies' policy, however, is neither fish nor flesh. They will treat with Lenin, but they will not recognise him as the ruler of Russia. They will conclude bargains with him, thereby admitting that he is the man who, in the crude phrase, can deliver the goods; but they will not send their consular agents to Moscow to facilitate the deal. We do not say that the Soviet Government ought to be recognised; for we realise that, even now, Lenin's claim to represent the Russian people is based on very doubtful grounds; but, if it should not be recognised, it should not be invited to confer with the Allies at Genoa. The Allies ought not to insist on having matters both ways. Lawyers may argue that the invitation to Genoa constitutes only a de facto recognition, whereas what really counts is recognition de jure. Such niceties of legal phraseology, however, merely annoy the ordinary man. In his mind the fact that Mr. Lloyd George will confer on equal terms with Lenin means that the recognition of the Bolsheviks is a fait accompli; and he would like his Government to be honest about it.

The whole business is complicated by the not unnatural fact that the Bolsheviks themselves are taking a hand in this game of quibbles. Whatever else they may or may not be, they certainly are clever men, and they have not the slightest intention of appearing at Genoa in sackcloth and ashes. M. Tchitcherin, Lenin's Foreign Minister, states very definitely, according to the Russian Trade Delegation in London, that "any agreement with other Governments must be expressed in the form of a complete de jure recognition of Russia's Workers' and Peasants' Government." Furthermore, he means what he says, and, apparently, is quite willing to retire from Genoa at once if his demand is not conceded. Now, there is little doubt that no scheme of European reconstruction can be of the least use if Russia is not a party to it. Economically, this vast country is the most important place in the world at present; and every attempt to rebuild Europe will fail unless its enormous resources are placed at the architects' disposal. As both the French and British Governments, therefore, have decided to refuse Tchitcherin's request for recognition, the Genoa Conference seems to be doomed to an abortive issue. The road to full success runs through the Kremlin. This fact, unfortunately, is beyond dispute.

Rates and Wages.

The interdependence of Capital and Labour is shown very clearly in the affairs of the Dublin Port and Docks Board. The Chamber of Commerce complains that the Board's high charges are strangling the city's trade and commerce. It admits that an all-round increase of as much as 100 per cent. over pre-war rates is justifiable; but many of the Board's charges exceed this ample limit. The tonnage dues on goods, for instance, have been increased since 1914 by 433 per cent. At its meeting yesterday the Board did not deny that the severity of its rates and dues bears hardly upon the trade of Dublin. It argued, however, that the high charges are the direct result of high working costs—in other words, of the claims which Labour continually enforces with the weapon of the strike. At the present moment Labour at the port is resisting a proposed reduction in wages. The Board demanded a weekly reduction of five shillings; Labour offered three, and a deadlock was reached. Yesterday the Board consented to "split the difference," and we hope that the Transport Workers' Union, by accepting the compromise, will save its members and the general public from much loss and suffering. It is certain, however, that neither the Port nor Dublin's business can flourish if there is to be no improvement in the present régime of high charges and high wages, punctuated with spells of idleness and confusion. A recognition of economic facts and a vigorous policy of reform are required from both parties; and both must be held answerable to the community at large.

Beggars.

At the annual meeting of the Association of Charities in Dublin yesterday, the Rev. T. A. Finlay, S.J., drew attention to the remarkable prevalence of begging in the city. In London, he said, it was calculated that a man could not walk a mile along any of the principal thoroughfares without being confronted by scores of collecting boxes; and no less than £100,000 were spent in this way every year. If London is bad, Dublin is far worse; for, while in the English capital some attempt is made to disguise the activities of beggars, here they pursue their calling not only without shame, but with positive aggression. Furthermore, they are extremely clever. As Father Finlay said, if they devoted half so much ingenuity to the cause of industry as they devote to the solicitation of alms, Ireland soon would rank among the first industrial countries of the world. We agree with Father Finlay that the authorities should deal with fraudulent beggars in a "rigorous way." The charitably minded man finds that he is being imposed on so often that when he meets genuine cases of distress—which also abound in our city—he sometimes refuses to assist them. Italy is probably the worst country in Christendom; so far as the begging nuisance is concerned; but Ireland is overhauling it rapidly, and steps should be taken to rid our streets of some, at any rate, of the more palpable frauds.

Bottled Sunlight.

Alchemy, with its romantic beliefs in the "Philosopher's Stone" and the "Elixir" of life, still spasmodically shows its head. Its latest champion is an ancient white-beard from Antioch, who seems to have read "Gulliver's Travels." He claims to have bottled the sun's rays, and his "solar fluid"—which, of course, is able to cure every ill—is being sold in fifteen different strengths by many chemists. The alchemist is a genial old fellow and quite willing to explain his work. He uses a kind of lightning conductor of aluminium, wound in a spiral round a wooden rod, to conduct the sun's energy into his fluid. This is composed of water, a gum, one of the ethers, and various other substances. The police have taken samples to be analysed. We should have thought that such an obvious fraud could not have been foisted upon the public in these days of so-called enlightenment. Apparently, however, the credulity of the public is unlimited. A few weeks ago a German chemist claimed to have discovered synthetic coal. Synthetic gold not very long ago brought an earnest American to Europe on the track of truth.

LORD MEATH ROBBED.

GENOA, Thursday.

Lord Meath, who arrived at Genoa yesterday, had his pocket picked. He was relieved of a wallet containing his passport and about £10. He has been compelled to obtain a new passport.

PEACE IS DECLARED

FAR-REACHING IRISH AGREEMENT.

NEW APPROACH TO BOUNDARIES PROBLEM.

SAFEGUARDS FOR BELFAST CATHOLICS.

"Peace is to-day declared." These are the opening words of the agreement reached last night between the representatives of the Provisional and the Northern Irish Governments, who met in conference at the Colonial Office, London.

Arrangements are provided for reorganising the Belfast police, with a view to the representation and safeguarding of the Catholic population and their interests.

I.R.A. activity in the six-county area is to cease.

Within a month from the passing of the Free State (Agreement) Bill the signatories to the present agreement are to meet, with a view to ascertaining whether means can be devised to secure the unity of Ireland, and, failing this, whether agreement can be reached on the Boundary question otherwise than by recourse to the Boundary Commission.

The British Government is to submit to Parliament a Vote not exceeding £500,000 to be expended in relief work in Belfast, one-third of the amount to go to Roman Catholics and two-thirds to Protestants. Also, efforts are to be made to find employment for the expelled workers.

Finally, arrangements are made for the release of political prisoners, but these arrangements will not apply to offences committed after March 31st.

THE AGREEMENT.

OFFICIAL TEXT.

The following is the text of the Irish Agreement, issued from the Colonial Office late last night:—

IRELAND.

HEADS OF AGREEMENT BETWEEN THE PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT AND THE GOVERNMENT OF NORTHERN IRELAND.

1. Peace is to-day declared.

2. From to-day the two Governments undertake to co-operate in every way in their power with a view to the restoration of peaceful conditions in the unsettled areas.

3. The police in Belfast to be organised in general accordance with the following conditions:—

(1) Special Police in mixed districts to be composed half of Catholics and half of Protestants. Special arrangements to be made where Catholics or Protestants are living in other districts. All Specials not required for this force to be withdrawn to their homes, and their arms handed in.

(2) An Advisory Committee, composed of Catholics, to be set up to assist in the selection of Catholic recruits for the Special Police.

(3) All police on duty, except the usual Secret Service, to be in uniform and officially numbered.

(4) All arms and ammunition issued to police to be deposited in barracks, in charge of a military or other competent officer, when the policeman is not on duty, and an official record to be kept of all arms issued, and of all ammunition issued and used.

(5) Any search for arms to be carried out by police forces, composed half of Catholics and half of Protestants, the military rendering any necessary assistance.

CRIMINAL TRIALS.

4. A Court, to be constituted for the trial without jury of persons charged with serious crime, the Court to consist of the Lord Chief Justice and one of the Lords Justices of Appeal of Northern Ireland. Any person committed for trial for a serious crime to be tried by that Court.

(a) If he so requests, or

(b) If the Attorney-General for Northern Ireland so directs.

Serious crime should be taken to mean any offence punishable with death, penal servitude, or imprisonment for a term exceeding six months.

The Government of Northern Ireland will take steps for passing the legislation necessary to give effect to this article.

INTIMIDATION AND OUTRAGE.

5. A Committee to be set up in Belfast, of equal numbers Catholic and Protestant —with an independent Chairman, preferably Catholic and Protestant alternating in successive weeks, to hear and investigate complaints as to intimidation, outrages, etc. Such Committee to have direct access to the heads of the Government.

The local Press to be approached with a view to inserting only such reports of disturbances, etc., as shall have been considered and communicated by this Committee.

6. I.R.A. activity to cease in the six counties, and thereupon the method of organising the Special Police in the six counties, outside Belfast, shall proceed as speedily as possible upon lines similar to those agreed to for Belfast.

UNITY AND BOUNDARIES.

7. During the month immediately following the passing into law of the Bill confirming the Constitution of the Free State (being the month within which the Northern Parliament is to exercise its option), and before any address in accordance with Article Twelve of the Treaty is presented, there shall be a further meeting between the signatories to this Agreement with a view to ascertaining:—

(a) Whether means can be devised to secure the unity of Ireland,

(b) Failing this, whether agreement can be arrived at on the boundary question otherwise than by recourse to the Boundary Commission outlined in Article Twelve of the Treaty.

8. The return to their homes of persons who have been expelled to be secured by the respective Governments, the advice of the Committee mentioned in Article Five to be sought in cases of difficulty.

RELIEF OF UNEMPLOYED.

9. In view of the special conditions consequent on the political situation in Belfast and neighbourhood, the British Government will submit to Parliament a vote not exceeding five hundred thousand pounds for the Ministry of Labour of Northern Ireland to be expended exclusively on relief work—one-third for the benefit of Roman Catholics and two-thirds for the benefit of Protestants.

The Northern signatories agree to use every effort to secure the restoration of the expelled workers, and wherever this proves impracticable at the moment, owing to trade depression, they will be afforded employment on the relief works referred to in this Article, so far as the one-third limit will allow. Protestant ex-Service men to be given first preference in respect to the two-thirds of the said fund.

10. The two Governments shall, in cases agreed upon between the signatories, arrange for the release of political prisoners in prison for offences before the date hereof. No offences committed after the 31st March, 1922, shall be open to consideration.

11. The two Governments unite in appealing to all concerned to refrain from inflammatory speeches and to exercise restraint in the interests of peace.

Signed on behalf of the Provisional Government:—

E. S. O DUGAIN.
CAOIMHGHIN O HIGGIN.

IN THE COMMONS.

GENERAL APPROVAL.

Mr. Churchill, rising in the House of Commons at 11 o'clock last night, said:—I think the House, before it adjourns to-night, will wish the representatives of the Government who were present to impart to them the terms of the agreement which has been reached as the result of the discussion extending over yesterday and to-day between the Governments of Northern Ireland and Southern Ireland. (Hear, hear.) I will read the document without comment. Mr. Churchill then read the terms, which we print above.

Sir Donald MacLean—I am certain not only the House, but the country, and, indeed, the whole of the British Commonwealth, will hear with very great relief the statement which the Colonial Secretary has just read out. This is not an occasion for anything approaching a discussion, but there are two points in that statement which I heard with great joy. The first of those points is that members of the two religions in unhappy conflict in Ireland have united together in a common effort to maintain law and order; and the other point is that it is the happiest aspiration of all that some effort should be made for the unity of Ireland. (Cheers.)

It is seldom that I can speak for the House as a whole, but I am sure that on this occasion I can say that nothing will be lacking on the part of members of every party to do everything they can to maintain this happy atmosphere, and that they will certainly join in an fervent prayer that this may be the first step and the real foundation of a lasting peace. (Cheers.)

MR. DEVLIN'S TRIBUTE.

Mr. Joseph Devlin, who was received with cheers, said:—I trust the House will forgive me if I also speak on the most cheering news which the right hon. gentleman has conveyed to the House. No one rejoices more profoundly than I do at the prospect of immediate, and, I trust, permanent, peace in Ireland, and I can only say that if the statement which the right hon. gentleman has read out is the foundation of the future peace, and I trust of the future unity, of Ireland, then the best work that has ever been done for Ireland, for the Empire, and for the world, has been performed to-day. (Hear, hear.)

May I be permitted to offer my congratulations to the right hon. gentleman, and to all his colleagues, for the inspired idea which moved him to call this Conference together; and I trust, as I pay very few compliments to members on that bench, that I may be allowed also to congratulate the right hon. gentleman upon the superb tact and ability with which he has conducted all these Irish matters since he was entrusted with them. (Hear, hear.)

For my part, having laboured for twenty years to try to bring my fellow-countrymen in Ulster together, the one passion and object of my life is to see those old subjects of controversy disappear and allow us to approach the consideration of Irish affairs in Southern Ireland and Belfast from the normal point of view that obtains in politics here and elsewhere.

I hope it will enable us to apply ourselves to the task of fighting for the elevation of the poor, for the promotion of great human causes, for the creation of better conditions for the people, and to joining together with the democracies of these islands for all that makes for the grandeur and permanent and enduring strength of the Empire. (Cheers.)

An Hon. Member—Where are the Diehards? (Loud cries of disapprobation.)

The House adjourned at 10.15 p.m.

MR. MICHAEL COLLINS.

It was reported in Dublin last night that Mr. Michael Collins was returning from London, and would be at his office at the Headquarters of the Provisional Government this morning.

A QUEENSTOWN MYSTERY.

MOVEMENTS OF TUG AND WARSHIPS.

ROADS BLOCKED AND WIRES CUT.

Writing from Queenstown on Thursday, our Correspondent says:—The London tug Warrior, which left Queenstown Harbour yesterday in rather mysterious circumstances, returned here to-night at 8 o'clock, accompanied by the naval sloop Heather. Both vessels came to anchor in the part of the harbour usually reserved for merchant vessels.

The sloop, on coming to anchor, signalled to the Admiralty Signal Station. Almost at the same time the War Office steamer Upton, which left Queenstown on Wednesday morning towing a barge, said to be laden with rifles, ammunition, etc., returned to port, also apparently as deeply laden as when she left and proceeded towards Haulbowline.

The destroyer, which left this morning, also returned hurriedly to-night, and a second destroyer which had left her moorings this afternoon to proceed under sealed orders was recalled to her moorings.

The movements of all these vessels out of the harbour and back again have occasioned much speculation as to their purpose.

The wildest rumours are in circulation regarding the sudden departure of the tug Warrior, which vessel proceeded to sea while her captain was on shore; but it is difficult to get information of a trustworthy character.

The naval tug Hellespont, which was also hurriedly despatched to sea by the naval authorities, has returned to this harbour.

ANOTHER ACCOUNT.

TELEGRAPHIC INTERRUPTION.

A Press Association message of yesterday's date says:—While the captain of an English tug boat was ashore on business with a local shipping agent on Wednesday evening, he was amazed to see his vessel, which he left lying in harbour with the rest of the crew on board, proceed to sea at full speed. The tug arrived a few days ago for the purpose of towing an obsolete war vessel to England, and was lying at the deep-water quay.

Mystified by her unexpected movements, the captain signalled her to return, but no notice was taken of his order.

While for the time being, he is unable to offer any definite explanation of the tug's mysterious departure, the captain is convinced that the crew did not sail of their own free will.

Various rumours, some of a sensational character, are current as to the reason for the vessel's unauthorised sailing, but so far no authentic explanation is available.

HEAVY DELAY.

Telegraphic and telephonic communications between Queenstown and Cork, and other places in the South, and also between Cork and Dublin, having been cut, and vehicular traffic on the main road leading to Cork was blocked at various points by means of felled trees.

A destroyer left Queenstown this morning under secret orders, and it was reported later that a second destroyer was hurriedly preparing to leave port. No definite information as to their destination or objective could be obtained.

During the day the Postmaster of Cork issued notice that heavy delay might be expected on cross-Channel traffic, due to fine interruption, and later it was reported that the wires in the East Cork direction were out of order, but no definite explanation of the cause was given.

In the afternoon some of the felled trees, which obstructed the roads in the vicinity of the city, were removed. Virtually all the motor lorries commandeered at Cork on Wednesday were returned to their owners this evening.

EAST LEICESTER RESULT.

A BIG TURN OVER.

The result of the polling in East Leicester was declared last night:—

Mr. G. H. Banton (Labour)	14,062
Mr. A. E. Barlow (Co.L.)	8,710
Mr. W. Allen (Ind. Lib.)	3,625

At the last election Sir Gordon Hewart (Coalition Liberal) was returned, having received 17,327 votes.

RENMORE BARRACK AFFAIR.

FREE STATE MEN IN NEW QUARTERS.

Extraordinary scenes were witnessed in Galway yesterday morning when the regular forces of the I.R.A. or Free State Army, who were evicted from the Renmore Barrack by Republicans on Wednesday, marched into Eyre Square. They were addressed by their Commanding officer, Mr. Austin Brennan, who characterised the taking over of the barrack on Wednesday of the Republicans as an act of cheatery. It appeared that an officer took out a party of armed men to the parade grounds ostensibly for the purpose of drilling them. They improved, however, that these men had been taken out for the purpose of capturing the barrack. He appealed to the members of the Free State Army to act in a manner worthy of Irish soldiers while they were in the city. The Free State men have taken over possession of the Galway Jail.

Commandant Brennan reported that Captain Patrick Dundon, one of his officers, a member of the West Clare Brigade, is held a prisoner in Dunmore Barrack, the O.C. of which has refused to release him.

THE "FREEMAN'S JOURNAL."

WHY IT WAS SUPPRESSED.

The following notice was communicated to the proprietors of the Freeman's Journal after the raid on the premises of that newspaper early yesterday morning:—

"You are hereby notified that it has been deemed necessary to take measures to suspend the publication of your journal, in view of statements made therein calculated to cause disaffection and indiscipline in the ranks of the Irish Republican Army.

"By order of the Army Council, Irish Republican Army Executive.

"29th March, '22."

The Freeman's Journal issued yesterday morning a small leaflet headed "Suppressed Again," containing an article referring to what had taken place, and informing the public that, "so far as it is humanly possible," the paper "will continue to appear."

The destruction of the machinery in the Freeman's Journal office will throw a considerable number of people out of employment.

ENGINEERING CRISIS.

The mediators appointed by the unions in connection with the engineering crisis had an interview at the House of Commons last evening with Sir Robert Horne and Dr. Macnamara, to whom they presented the request for an inquiry under the Industrial Courts Act into the dispute. The Ministers promised that matters should be considered and a reply given to-day.

BIRTHS AND DEATHS IN DUBLIN.

The births in the Dublin Registration Area last week numbered 284, and the deaths 238. The births represented an annual rate of mortality of 24.2 per 1,000 of the population. In the City of Dublin the rate was 25.7.

The Registrar-General reports that the annual rate of mortality in 105 county boroughs and great towns of England and Wales last week averaged 14.2 per 1,000.

TO REPORT TO THEIR UNITS.

A notice in the following terms has been issued by Commandant Holahan, of the First Battalion, Dublin City Brigade:—

"All men who have been serving under this command, and were transferred to 'Regular' Army, are hereby notified to report back to their units."

AMBUSH ON THE BORDER.

"SPECIALS" UNDER FIRE.

ULSTER TERRITORY INVADED.

There has been great activity during the last twenty-four hours along the Monaghan-Tyrone border.

At about 4 o'clock yesterday morning a party of B "Specials" were patrolling the Favor Royal road, some three miles from Aughnacloy, when they were ambushed. Their assailants, who had crossed the border, were concealed in the Lismore plantation.

The "Specials" were taken by surprise; the first indication of their danger was a fusillade of rifle shots. Hastily taking cover, they returned the fire, and during the next twenty minutes about 300 shots were exchanged. The shooting was heard at Aughnacloy, and a force of A men was sent to the scene. Before it arrived, however, the attackers had been forced to retreat.

On Wednesday night there was intermittent firing at various points along the Aughnacloy "front," and in some cases machine-guns were used by the Free State men.

Killycarron House, the headquarters of a platoon of "Specials," was the target for snipers, who occupied posts on rising ground in the Derrygorry and Aghamacklahin districts, but no damage was done.

It is reported that fresh forces have been sent to the neighbourhood of Moybridge and that the Free State force has been strengthened at several other points.

Mr. John Davidson, who is employed by Messrs. Agnew Brothers, dentists, Monaghan, was driving a motor car from Aughnacloy to Monaghan on Wednesday evening, when he was "held up" by armed men, who stole his motor car and ordered him to return to Aughnacloy.

Two more bridges have been destroyed in Northern territory near Clones, and farmers have great difficulty in attending the fairs and markets in the district. There was a very small attendance yesterday at Clones.

REBUILDING CORK.

PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT SCHEME.

The Irish Provisional Government has formulated a scheme of organisation to facilitate and expedite the reconstruction of the destroyed areas in Cork. A Committee is to be set up in Cork, composed of one representative of the Provisional Government and nine persons appointed by the Cork Corporation, one of whom is to be a representative of the owners of the destroyed buildings, and one a representative of the Cork District Trades and Labour Council. The Committee is to have the assistance of certain Corporation officers.

A sum, not exceeding £10,000, will be placed at the disposal of the Committee immediately it is set up. The Committee will be required to submit an estimate to the Provisional Government the further amount that will be required by it after an interval of not more than one month, and at the expiration of this interval certified by the Chief Treasurer for payment any expenditure upon further building works that has been vouched up to date. This procedure will be continuous until instructions to the contrary have been issued by the Provisional Government or its legal successors.

In order to become entitled to the moneys provided under the scheme, any person intending to build must give notice to the Committee with an estimate of the amount to be expended by him from month to month until the completion of the building.

Pending the revision of decrees, the Committee shall not certify for any decree holder in respect of any building any greater sum than three-fifths of the amount for which the decree held by him in respect of the particular building being replaced.

One condition of the scheme is that the Corporation shall not grant any new permit for the erection of a temporary building, or the extension of an existing permit, without the consent of the Ministry of Local Government of the Provisional Government first being obtained.

UNEMPLOYED FUND.

ULSTER'S £1,000,000 BILL.

In the Northern House of Commons yesterday, the Minister of Finance (Mr. H. M. Pollock) moved the second reading of the Unemployed Fund Bill. He explained that the object of the bill was to empower the Ministry of Finance to make advances to the Unemployed Fund. The limit of advance under the bill was £1,000,000, and it was hoped that it would not be necessary to make such a large advance.

The bill was read a second time, and passed the Committee stage.

FARMERS AND THE ELECTIONS.

At its meeting yesterday the National Executive of the Irish Farmers' Union considered the present political situation in relation to agricultural interests. After an exhaustive discussion it was decided to arrange meetings in every county to be held on or before Saturday, April 15. The meetings will not be confined to members of the Union, but will be open to persons interested in agriculture. It is hoped that the secretaries will be in a position, after the meetings, to report if the candidates so far as known may be taken to be those in whose hands agricultural interests would be safeguarded in the Free State, and if otherwise to report on the policy of selecting candidates in whose hands agriculture would be safe.

The question of land purchase was also considered by the Executive, and it was decided to hold a convention of unpurchased tenants in Dublin on the 19th April.

CLONES ARRESTS.

"The Special constables captured at Clones on 11th ult. have not been yet released," said Major Barnston in the House of Commons yesterday. No arrests had been made in connection with the murder of Lieutenant Genochio taken place, and informing the public that, "so far as it is humanly possible," the paper "will continue to appear."

The destruction of the machinery in the Freeman's Journal office will throw a considerable number of people out of employment.

SHOTS IN LIMERICK.

Between two and three o'clock yesterday morning shots were fired into the lower windows of the Protestant Young Men's Association Hall, O'Connell street, Limerick. There are six holes in the glass, which were caused by bullets, one of which also pierced through the glass of a folding door dividing the smoke-room in front from a ballroom. Six bullets were found in the hall.

COLLEGE OF SCIENCE DANCE.

What should be an enjoyable dance will be held by the Royal College of Science to-night at 10 o'clock, in Mr. Leggett Byrne's ballroom, 22 Adelaide road, Dublin. Mr. Leggett Byrne has kindly lent his band, the Murray-Melody Four. Tickets can be obtained at the door.

DOG LICENCE MONEY TAKEN.

It is stated that I.R.A. men raided the head and sub-post offices in Sligo yesterday afternoon, and took all the money that had been received for dog licences, together with the books and vouchers. Similar raids have been made on the outlying sub-offices.

3 FIRES AT THE SAME TIME.

GREAT DAMAGE IN BELFAST.

COUNTRYSIDE LIT UP FOR 10 MILES.

TWO POLICEMEN SHOT.

Three big fires blazed simultaneously in Belfast last night.

The Brigade was first called to an outbreak at Redmond's timber and packing-case factory in Great George's street; a few minutes later a grocery shop in North street was reported on fire; and the third outbreak occurred in Wordie's stores and stables, Divis street.

The divided Brigade did its best, but the buildings were badly damaged, and the loss is considerable.

The flames lit up the whole city, and anxious telephone inquiries were received from Carrickfergus, eight miles away, and Bangor, ten miles, where the glow in the sky was plainly visible. Two false alarms were also received by the Fire Brigade.

There was further shooting last night (earlier outrages are reported on Page 6), four victims being reported. A bomb, which caused no personal injuries, was thrown.

The most serious incident occurred in the east end of the city, where two Special constables were seized as they stepped off a tram in Short street by a crowd of men, who took them into a side street, brutally beat and kicked them, and then shot them.

Constable Thomas Hall was wounded in the abdomen, and is not expected to recover, and Constable Moody was shot in the hip.

Three men entered the public-house of James Campion, Boundary street, and shot him through the head. His condition is precarious.

John Sweeney, aged 18, of Stanhope street, was found lying in the street with a gunshot wound in the chest, and was taken to hospital.

A bomb was thrown in Moffat street, a turning from Great George's street, where a big fire was in progress. No casualties were reported.

NORTHERN BOYCOTT.

STRONG STEPS IN SOUTH AND WEST.

The reports that came to hand last night show that vigorous action has been taken in various parts of the South and West to enforce the trade boycott of Belfast and the six counties.

Stations have been raided and goods from Belfast removed and destroyed; commercial travellers from the North have brought their journeys in the West to a close; and in several towns the boycott committees have been re-organised.

The Officer Commanding the Mid-Limerick Brigade, I.R.A., has intimated that he will issue a proclamation enforcing the boycott in his Brigade area to-day.

LIMERICK'S PROTEST.

COMMITTEE'S NEW POWERS.

At a special meeting of the Limerick Corporation yesterday, the Mayor said that he had convened it after reading a letter in the Press from a distinguished Irishman who asked whether the Catholics and Protestants in the South and West could do nothing to save their Catholic fellow Irishmen in Belfast. He had invited a delegate from Belfast to advise the Corporation about the means that it would adopt to relieve the sufferings of Belfast Catholics.

The delegate described murders that had been committed in Belfast, and asserted that some of the worst cases were not reported in the Press. He believed that not a single Protestant house had been burned in Belfast.

It was a great consolation to Catholics in the North, he said, to know that they had the sympathy of the people in the South and West. Limerick, of its own accord, a year and eight months ago Cork contributed a sum of £500 a week for four weeks towards the relief of distress in Belfast, and had increased that sum to £1,000 a week.

Brigadier L. Forde referred to the fact that at the Convention which was held in Dublin last Sunday, it was decided to re-impose the Belfast boycott.

Mr. Colivet, T.D., said that they could help the people in Belfast by four methods—the Northern boycott, the English boycott, financial aid and the housing of refugees. He described the firing of shots into Protestant houses in Limerick as immoral and silly.

A resolution was adopted empowering the original Boycott Committee to resume work.

Brigadier Forde said that his brigade was not responsible for the incidents that had occurred on the previous night.

VIGOROUS ACTION IN KERRY.

A rigid boycott of all classes of goods from the Northern area is being carried out in Co. Kerry.

The mail train to Tralee was "held up" at Farranfore Station yesterday morning by armed men, who seized consignments of goods, principally drapery, for Castleisland traders.

A Tralee trader's premises were raided and a consignment of tea from a Belfast firm seized.

A notice has been posted up in Tralee, signed by H. Murphy, Officer Commanding Kerry No. 1 Brigade, I.R.A., enforcing the boycott.

COUNTY MAYO RAIDS.

Ballyhaunis (Co. Mayo) railway premises were raided last night, and large consignments of goods from Belfast to local traders were taken away from the store. In Kiltimagh similar action was taken. The boycott is being received with vigour, and travellers from the Northern capital are hastily returning from the West.

I.R.A. APPOINTMENTS.

An official report issued from Beggars' Bush Barrack last night states:—

The following further appointments, in addition to those published yesterday, are notified:—

Assistant Divisional Transport Officer—Bob O'Neill.

Transport Officer, 1st Dublin Brigade, 2nd Eastern Division—S. J. O'Reilly.

Adjutant, 4th Battalion, Dublin Brigade—H. Murray.

I.R.A. HEADQUARTERS.

The official I.R.A. troops from Beggars' Bush Barrack have taken over several buildings in Dublin, which are being used as headquarters.

The following official addresses are notified:—

Headquarters 2nd Dublin Brigade—Clonskeagh Castle, Clonskeagh.

Headquarters 1st Batt. 1st Dublin Brigade—Columcille Hall, 5 Blackhall street.

Headquarters 2nd Batt. 1st Dublin Brigade—100, Seville place.

Headquarters 3rd Batt. 1st Dublin Brigade—Recruiting Office, Brunswick street.

Headquarters 4th Batt. 1st Dublin Brigade—Rathfarnham Barrack, Rathfarnham.

R.I.C. FORCE FUND.

The bulk of the persons whose dependants might be entitled to benefit from the Benefits' Branch of the R.I.C. Force Fund, said Sir Hamar Greenwood in Parliament yesterday, were pensioners already, and the disbandment of the force did not affect the purpose of this branch of the fund, which was to benefit dependants on the death of subscribers. No new subscribers had been admitted since 1885, and it was proposed to let the fund continue until there were no longer any subscribers left, so that the widows and orphans of deceased members of the R.I.C. who were subscribers to that fund should be able to benefit.

The Home Secretary has appointed Mr. Maurice Lyndham Waller, C.B., one of the Prison Commissioners, to be Chairman of the Commissioners.

FIGHTING IN SIBERIA.

RUSSO-JAPANESE CLASH.

"AN UNPARDONABLE AFFRONT."

A situation which may be fraught with the gravest consequences has arisen in Siberia, where Japanese and Russian troops have met in conflict.

For several months there has been civil war in the Maritime Province Republic, where the "White" troops opposed to the "Red" forces have been fighting a losing battle.

The losers were being followed into the neutral zone established on the borders of Manchuria by the Japanese Commander at Vladivostock when the clash occurred. A Japanese officer has been sent from Tokio to make a full report.

Japanese civil opinion, say The Times Special Correspondents, is wholly in favour of a complete withdrawal from Siberia, but the invasion of the neutral zone by Russian "Reds" is regarded as an unpardonable affront by the Japanese authorities.

The Commander of the Japanese forces at Vladivostock has issued a protest against the invasion, and has requested the Maritime Province Government to control its troops, pointing out the consequences of further violation of the military agreement under which Japan polices the Vladivostock area.

NEAR EAST PROPOSALS.

ALLIES TO PERMIT NO HAGGLING.

The Marquis Curzon, in the course of a statement in the House of Lords yesterday, in connection with the Paris Conference, said that the Conference spent five days in prolonged and laborious, though very friendly, discussion of the problem of the war between Turkey and Greece in all its aspects.

The first proposal at Paris was that an armistice should be concluded. The conditions were drawn up in Paris by the military authorities, under the presidency of Marshal Foch. They provided for the complete cessation of hostilities for three months, to be automatically renewed until the two belligerents had accepted the preliminaries of peace. Secondly, for the attachment of Allied military commanders to both parties to see that the conditions were faithfully observed.

The proposals appeared to have been generally approved by public opinion in this and other countries, and to be regarded on the whole as a fair and equitable solution of these most difficult problems. It had been stated somewhere that these proposals were not an ultimatum. That was inherent in the circumstances of the case; but he hoped that it would not be inferred from the use of that phrase that the Powers were disposed to depart from the broad fundamental outline of the policy that he had sketched, or to embark upon a protracted process of haggling, in order that, by a breach in the fabric here and there, the whole structure might be brought to the ground.

ULSTER POLICE FORCE.

INDUCEMENTS TO R.I.C. AND D.M.P.

The announcement was made last night that recruiting can now be opened for the new Ulster Police Force. Recruitment will, without distinction of creed, be open to all members of the Royal Irish Constabulary throughout Ireland and of the Special Constabulary, and a limited number of the Dublin Metropolitan Police. The rates of pay, of allowances, and the pensions are those as fixed by the R.I.C. Pay Order, 1920, the R.I.C. Allowance Order, 1920, and the R.I.C. Pensions Order, 1922.

The conditions and concessions to existing members of the R.I.C. were published in the Irish Times of March 25. With regard to the existing members of the Northern Special Constabulary, all classes of the Special Constabulary are eligible, but in taking recruits from the Special Constabulary preference will be given to Class "A."

Members of the Special Constabulary will join as constables, but any member of Class "A," who has served as an officer or for six months or more as a head constable shall be granted for the purposes of pay and promotion six years' service, and any member of Class "A" who has served for six months or more in the rank of sergeant or in the rank of sergeant and head constable combined, shall be granted for purposes of pay and promotion four years' service in addition to the actual service in the Special Constabulary. Members of the Special Constabulary, Class "A," shall enter the new force, with benefit of former service for increments of pay and also for pension, provided that, as regards pension, they refund, within two years of joining the new force, any sum they may have already received as bonus in lieu of pension.

Members of the D.M.P. who are accepted will join as constables, and subject to any subsequent agreement with the Imperial Government shall not be entitled to receive any additional non-pensionable allowance such as is fixed for the R.I.C., but will be entitled to count their years of service in the D.M.P. for the purposes of pay, but not for pension. In special circumstances sergeants will be considered for corresponding rank in the new force. Members of the D.M.P. will not be required to pass a further test as regards height or chest measurement, but will have to undergo a medical examination.

DUBLIN CITY HALL GUARD.

Yesterday morning a party of Free State troops from Beggar's Bush Barracks, with full equipment, entered the City Hall, where the usual guard has been strengthened in consequence, it is stated, of the authorities at General Headquarters considering that the present guard of twelve men was insufficient.

Another party of troops, acting on instructions from G.H.Q., has taken possession of Clonskeagh Castle, formerly the residence of Captain Wade-Thompson. Recently it was unoccupied, and is now being used as a training centre.

The re-covering, re-filling, and re-erection of sand bags at the east end of Dublin port yesterday were watched by dockers, who were puzzled at this form of activity by British Army fatigue parties. No further troops are listed for departure from the Liffey at present.

NORTHERN TRAIN ROBBERS.

Yesterday morning the train from Belfast to Cookstown was raided between Randalstown and Toome. At Staffordstown Station a number of armed men "held up" the driver and fireman, while others searched the mail bags and took a number of letters in official envelopes.

OVERPRINTED POSTAL ORDERS.

In connection with the transfer of the Post Office services to the Irish Provisional Government notice is given that postal orders over, printed in green, with the words "Post Office, Eireann," in Roman characters, will be introduced. British Postal Orders (not so overprinted) should, however, continue to be accepted, and these should be dealt with in the same way as the new postal orders.

ADMIRALTY AND HAULBOWLINE.

Information has been received at Queenstown that, at the request of the Irish Provisional Government, the Admiralty have decided to send a destroyer to the Haulbowline Dockyard for a general overhaul and refit, pending a decision being reached as to the future of the dockyard. The work to be carried out on the vessel will afford employment for some time to the present staff of workmen, and prevent any discharges. The original intention of the Admiralty was to close the dockyard absolutely on March 31, 1922, as no provision has been made in the Naval Estimates to keep it open during 1922.

FREE STATE STAMPS.

The Postmaster-General in London announces that on and from Saturday next, April 1, the overprinted British stamps issued for use in the Irish Free State will cease to be valid for use in Great Britain or in Northern Ireland for any purpose.

TENNIS PAVILION BURNED.

At eleven o'clock on Wednesday night the pavilion on the Protestant Young Men's Association cricket and tennis grounds, at Farranshone, adjacent to Limerick, was found to be on fire. The Corporation Fire Brigade, which was called from the Castle Barracks, was quickly on the scene, but the fire was beyond control, and the pavilion was burned to the ground. The damage is estimated at over £1,000.

FROM TO-DAY'S LONDON PAPERS.

PEACE IN IRELAND.

SUCCESS OF THE CONFERENCE.

"THE TIMES" OF TO-DAY SAYS:—

There could be no more grateful news than the announcement which we make to-day of the signing of articles of peace by the representatives of Northern and Southern Ireland. Mr. Michael Collins and Sir James Craig are to be congratulated, not merely on the complete success of their conference, but on the rapidity with which they have come to terms. Their joint declaration of peace is a great act of statesmanship. It is a beacon guiding Irishmen from the tempests of centuries into the safe haven of united nationhood.

The agreement is more than an armistice between North and South. It is true that it provides for the lulling over of the present crisis by the protection of Roman Catholics in Belfast, and the cessation of hostilities by the I.R.A. It does much more than this by tackling the critical question of the boundaries of the two States in a comprehensive manner. The boundary line is not settled outright, but it is provided that when the time comes for a final decision, the signatories to the agreement shall meet again to explore every possible avenue to a united Ireland, and, failing that supreme goal, to settle upon a boundary line by agreement.

Mr. Collins and Sir James Craig have shown wisdom and courage which we expected of them in signing this agreement. All that is needed to make it effective is the good-will of Ireland as a whole. The whole Empire will look to Ireland with reasoned confidence to honour the bond into which its chosen leaders have entered.

ANOTHER STEP FORWARD.

PARLIAMENT AND GENOA.

The Cabinet is leaving nothing to chance. First, Mr. Chamberlain and his Conservative colleagues insisted on limiting the Prime Minister's mandate for Genoa to the Cannes resolutions and on putting it in the bond, remarks The Times editorially. They have now gone a step farther by asserting the right of Parliament to control the Prime Minister's actions, and, if necessary, to correct his decisions at the conference table.

The House of Commons is to be asked next Monday to support the Government in endeavouring to give effect to the resolutions passed by the Supreme Council at Cannes as the basis of the Genoa Conference. There is always the danger of a wider interpretation of a motion, however blameless it may seem to be, than its authors intended.

This danger has clearly been foreseen, for Mr. Chamberlain was in a position yesterday to deny that the Government intended to commit the British Empire to any decision at Genoa without Parliament having the opportunity of signifying its assent or otherwise.

There was not a clean-minded man in Ireland to-day but abhorred and was sick at heart and disgusted at the revolting atrocities indulged in daily in the name of politics and in the sacred name of religion—crimes which had well-nigh engulfed their civilisation.

Their duty as Rotarians plainly was to go vigorously and steadfastly on, found clubs wherever possible, and to preach their gospel of love and better understanding amongst their fellow-countrymen, not on political or sectarian lines, but on the principles of the only true and uncontroversial religion—the reciprocity and brotherly love that are embodied in the golden rule—"All things whatsoever ye would that men should do unto you, do ye even so unto them."

THE STOCK EXCHANGE.

Business in Stock markets yesterday again assumed substantial proportions, says The Times, and, although there was a pause in the upward movement in Gilt-edged securities, the general tone of markets remained good. Notable strength was shown by Victory Bonds, and certain Home Railway Stocks and Tea Shares were in renewed strength. Imperial Continental Gas Stock rose sharply on the dividend, and Tobacco Shares were buoyant. Apart from the heaviness of Mexican Eagle, the Oil market was firmer, and South African shares met with a little support just at the close.

LOOSE ENGINE STEP.

DISASTER NARROWLY AVERTED.

The report of the findings of Major Hall, Government Inspector, following the inquiry into the railway accident at Milton crossing, near Bilsworth, on the London and North-Western Railway, on January 27, when the tender step of a train from Euston to Wolverhampton worked loose, and after re-bounding finally penetrated the back partition of the front coach of a train from Carlisle to Euston which was passing at the time, was issued last night. By the accident one passenger on the down train was killed and 25 others were injured.

Major Hall says that the evidence clearly proves that the step fastenings were continually wearing loose after quite short periods of running. The process probably began with the shaking out of worn lock-set screws, throwing an increasing strain on the remaining fastenings, and eventually leading to the separation of the step. An examination of the remaining tender step of the engine affected, in which two set screws were missing and other bolts slack, would confirm this contention. The accident, he decides, must be attributed to the insecure method of fastening. Had the heavy step not taken the somewhat remarkable course after falling that it did, practically continuing the passage to between seven and eight feet above the rail level, the derailment of one or both trains would probably have occurred, with consequently more serious results. Comment, he declares, arises on the fact that, though the engine affected had been frequently reported for loose step fastenings, the chief locomotive foreman at Bushbury stated that he was unaware of the fact, which otherwise would have received special attention. He recommends a re-consideration of the design of the steps on those engines, and that if a separate step casting is retained fastenings should either be riveted or, if bolts and nuts are used, some adequate locking arrangements for the nuts should be adopted. Also that where an engine is frequently reported for the same defect the steps should be taken off to ensure that the attention of some responsible official is directed to the circumstances.

A SHIPYARD AGREEMENT.

At a special meeting of the Belfast District Committee of the Engineering and Shipbuilding Trades Federation the secretary, Mr. H. C. Speers, reported that the local shipbuilding employers had agreed that there should be no reduction in the present existing rates up to and including Wednesday, April 5. The Federation claimed that there should be no reduction in wages locally until a national settlement was arrived at, and this had not up to the present been refused by the local shipbuilding employers. They had agreed that before any stoppage in work takes place, in the event of an adverse result being returned by the national ballot, that a local conference should be held with the federated trades. Under this satisfactory position in the Belfast yards the men would continue at work.

PREMIER'S GENOA AGREEMENT.

THE BOULOGNE MEETING.

R. ASQUITH DEMANDS INFORMATION.

"NOT IN THE PUBLIC INTEREST."

Mr. Chamberlain said, in the House of Commons yesterday, that in addition to the figures of the staffs of the Government Departments, which he gave on the 20th day it was going to Genoa for the Conference, Australia would send one delegate and a staff of four; Canada, two delegates and a staff of four; South Africa, one delegate, two advisers and a staff of three; New Zealand would be represented by the Imperial Government until their own delegate arrives, and will rely on His Majesty's Government for any further assistance that they may require.

Viscount Curzon asked whether the staff mentioned on the previous day was not about twice the number necessary at Washington, and whether the Foreign Office had a staff of 70, whereas they had seven at Washington, and why such a large staff was required at Genoa.

Mr. Chamberlain—Because the circumstances of the two Conferences are wholly different. I ought, in giving the figures yesterday, to have broken them up into the executive and advisory staff, and the ancillary staff. There were from three to five Ministers going—three principal Ministers—there are 24 experts and a secretarial staff of 15 people. There are 51 secretaries, including translators, clerks, official reporters, typists, messengers, and so forth. At Washington, the scope of the Conference was far less. The Conference was held in English and the British Delegation had the services of the ordinary staff of the Embassy to supplement the special staff. We have no desire to spend more on the staff than is necessary, but in these circumstances, the British Delegations have, by general consent, been well equipped, and I should be sorry to see them undertake this difficult work without adequate assistance.

Viscount Curzon asked whether the Government intended to commit the British Empire to any decision at Genoa without Parliament having the opportunity of signifying its assent or otherwise.

Mr. Chamberlain—No, sir.

CONFERENCE AGENDA.

MR. CHAMBERLAIN'S SHARP REPROOF.

Mr. Asquith asked the Leader of the House whether an agreement was reached at the Boulogne Conference, or otherwise, between the Prime Minister and M. Poincaré as to the programme of Genoa Conference, and, if so, whether, and to what extent, the agreement limited the subjects to be discussed at the Conference.

Mr. Chamberlain—Among the subjects discussed at Boulogne by M. Poincaré and the Prime Minister was the Genoa Conference, and the two Prime Ministers exchanged ideas upon the two Prime Ministers exchanged ideas upon the terms of the conduct of the Conference. As I stated yesterday, I cannot deal adequately with this matter within the limits of an answer to a question, and I hope that in my right hon. friend will consent to await the Prime Minister's speech on Monday, in which he proposes to deal fully with this point. Among other things, I have drawn his particular attention to the inquiries addressed to me to-day by my right hon. friend, and yesterday by Lord R. Cecil.

Mr. Asquith—I wish to ask whether the right hon. gentleman, or any other right hon. Minister in this House, thinks it is respectful to the House of Commons, when the Government themselves have invited a debate, that a matter so vital to the future of the subject-matter of that debate as the agreement reached, or alleged to have been reached, by the two Prime Ministers of Great Britain and France, things that would be the despondent debate to be initiated by the Prime Minister upon secondhand sources of information, and should not be told what was actually arrived at? (Cheers.)

Mr. Chamberlain—I think that neither my right hon. friend nor the House will think I would be guilty of any discourtesy. (Hear, hear.) The right hon. gentleman himself has illustrated the difficulty of dealing with this matter by question and answer, for his question has become a speech, and a speech of a documentary character. (Cheers, and cries of "Oh.") With respect to the Prime Minister's House, but out of regard for the public interest that, speaking with the responsibility of a Minister, I must ask the House to allow us to defer to our explanation, the date to which they can be given fully and fairly.

Mr. Chamberlain, in reply to further questions, said—In view of the state of public business, I cannot name any one day. I think it is unusual for the House to seek to anticipate a debate for which a day is allotted by a series of questions on the subject matter to be raised.

Lord Robert Cecil—If there was an agreement reached at Boulogne—I do not know if there was—does not the right hon. gentleman really think we ought to have in our possession the text of that agreement? (Cheers.)

Mr. Chamberlain—My noble friend is only trying to persuade me to do what I have already said I cannot do, and, speaking with the responsibility I have, I do not take it that it is in the public interest I should do. I very respectfully decline to anticipate the Prime Minister's statement.

LIBERAL AMENDMENT.

"NO CONFIDENCE."

The following amendment to Mr. Lloyd George's motion on the Genoa Conference was handed in yesterday in the names of Mr. Asquith, Sir Donald Maclean, Mr. Hodge, and Mr. George Thorne:—"That this House, while regretting the limitation of the subjects for discussion, approves of the holding of the Genoa Conference, but declines to express confidence in His Majesty's Government in regard thereto."

The Press Association adds:—

This amendment was approved at a meeting of the Independent Liberal Party. It differs materially from that of which the Labour Party has given notice. The choice will presumably be with the Speaker.

The Conservative "Die-Hards" held a meeting yesterday, under the chairmanship of Col. Gretton, and considered their action on the matter. It is understood that on the plain issue, most of those associated with the Coalition will vote against the Government, but the position is complicated by the presence on the Order Paper of the two amendments, neither of which expresses their views.

TUNNELLED WALLS.

ESCAPE HOLES IN BELFAST YARDS.

In the Belfast Police Court yesterday, Thomas Johnston, Glentilt street, was charged with throwing a bomb with intent to murder at Stanhope street.

Extraordinary evidence was given regarding the conditions in this mixed area.

Hester McDonnell, of Stanhope street, said that on March 22 she saw the prisoner, who had a parcel, and another man at the street corner. After that she heard shots fired, and a little later the prisoner threw a bomb. She gave a military officer a description of the man.

Lieutenant Hyatt, Norfolk Regiment, said that he saw the prisoner with four other men, and he answered the description that he had received from the girl. Witness halted the five men, and they made for a house on the left-hand side. He fired a shot over their heads, and the men dived into the house.

Going into the house that he thought they had gone into, and right into the back yard, and found all the walls tunnelled.

Mr. Moorhead—That will soon be remedied.

If the tunnels are not closed up the houses will be levelled to the ground. Up in this district the houses are regular fortifications.

The witness added that he afterwards saw the five men in Broadmount street, and they ran into a house. He caught the prisoner on the yard wall, but the others escaped. Johnston had no arms on him.

The case was adjourned.

KINGSTOWN AND THE TREATY.

A NOISY MEETING.

A pro-Treaty public meeting of about one thousand people was held last night in the Town Hall, Kingstown. While it was being turned into a scene of pandemonium, an overflow meeting was being held in the street. The speakers, who could not be heard in the hall, were given a hearing by a large crowd outside.

In the hall no sooner did the proceedings begin than loud-voiced opposition manifested itself.

Mr. Fred. J. Allen, President of the Republican District Court, was chairman, and when he opened the proceedings he was met with prolonged cheering, which was intermixed with groans. There was uproar for a time, but it subsided after a little.

Mr. Desmond Fitzgerald, who, on rising had a mixed reception, said that he was a prisoner in Dun Laoghaire Barracks in 1916, with only a dozen policemen guarding it, and if only a few of the men who were interrupting him had attempted a rescue he would not have been a prisoner for any length of time. He stood for the Republican policy better than many of those who were against the Treaty.

Mr. Fitzgerald continued to speak, but in face of the loud and persistent opposition he sat down.

Mr. Gafan Duffy, who spoke next, got a mixed reception. Some girls tried to sing "The Soldiers' Song," and sometimes a whistle was heard. Owing to the confusion at the back of the hall, many people left. The noise was continued, and very few remarks from the speaker could be heard. Mr. Duffy begged to be heard for five minutes without interruption. He said that he wondered what Mr. de Valera and Mr. Cathal Brugha thought of these sort of interruptions. These methods were the worst possible advertisement for Mr. de Valera. They were making votes for the Treaty, and he thanked them. This sort of thing would secure the ratification of the Treaty by an overwhelming majority of the Irish people. Those who made these noises were afraid to hear the truth spoken. (Loud cheering.)

This remark was followed by such prolonged interruption and noise that it was impossible to hear the speaker, and he sat down.

Other speakers got up, but the noisy interruption was continuous.

Meanwhile a large outdoor meeting was being addressed by Mr. D. Fitzgerald, Mr. Gavan Duffy, and others.

THE I.R.A. CONVENTION.

A statement issued from Republican headquarters in Dublin last night announces that the number of brigades represented at the Irish Republican Army convention was 71 per cent. of the total number in Ireland.

"A comparative statement, based on the numerical strength of brigades," adds the report, "shows that the convention represented, as a conservative estimate, 80 per cent. of the whole army. It is obviously inadvisable to give details of the strength in any particular area, but it can be stated that one division alone, which was fully represented, comprises one-quarter of the whole army."

In the House of Commons yesterday, Major Barnston, in reply to Lt.-Col. Croft, said that his attention had been called to a convention of the I.R.A. at the Mansion House, Dublin. He had no precise information as to the number of the adherents of this attempt to set up a military dictatorship, but they certainly did not amount to more than a small minority of the people, and he was unable to believe that they would succeed in bringing about a situation which would call for the intervention of the British Government, which, in any event, would be guided by the wishes and requests of the responsible Government.

I.R.A. HEADQUARTERS CHANGED.

Brigadier M. Gray, O.C., Leix No. 1 Brigade, I.R.A., Maryborough, has issued notice of the transfer of Brigade Headquarters from Abbeyleix to Maryborough. This is stated to be in consequence of the seizure of Abbeyleix Barrack by unofficial I.R.A. Brigade munitions, which were taken away, have been recovered.

The Brigadier has also published a warning to traders against giving goods on credit to any persons on behalf of the brigade without his authority.

THE FREE STATE CONSTITUTION.

ALMOST READY FOR PUBLICATION.

Incidents of the past few days have caused much apprehension in the public mind, and at the moment the ordinary citizen is wondering what the immediate future has in store. Wild rumours were prevalent yesterday in Dublin, and although they proved groundless, they created uneasiness throughout the city. Their effect upon business was manifest, and it was felt that unless some tangible advantages were gained from the London Conference, the trade and commerce of the country may be injured. The split in the Irish Republican Army, which is gradually becoming more acute, overshadows the cleavage between the political leaders.

Preparations for the general election are being pushed ahead. Within the next few days the completed draft of the Free State constitution will be submitted for the approval of the Provisional Government, and it will probably be ready for publication towards the end of next week. Meanwhile active preparations are being made in other directions for the election, which will be held in the first week of June. The work in connection with the preparation of the register is expected to be completed within six weeks. In this connection the anti-Treaty section is pursuing its objection to the present register.

LORD BIRKENHEAD.

ENFORCED REST THROUGH EYE TROUBLE.

Owing to eye trouble the Lord Chancellor (Lord Birkenhead) has been ordered to take a month's rest.

In making the announcement in the House of Lords yesterday, he informed his colleagues that for the last month or two it had been almost impossible for him, with any comfort, to read documents. The disability from which he was suffering was not so much the result of any grave physical organic weakness as of general overwork, and he hoped to be restored as a result of the rest.

For eight years he had borne unremitting burdens as a Minister, as Law Officer, and as Lord Chancellor, and the burden of these offices had not diminished as the years went on.

It was a moderate statement of the truth that fourteen or fifteen hours' labour daily were hardly sufficient to discharge the vast judicial, administrative, and political duties which attached to his office. He had represented these facts to His Majesty, who had been pleased, subject to the approval of their lordships, to give him free leave of absence for the period he asked. The Great Seal would be placed in commission.

The Marquis Curzon said that there was not one in the House who had not viewed with admiration and surprise the unsinking vigour of the Lord Chancellor's activities. He could testify to the strain which had been laid on him. No man, unless he were endowed not only with extraordinary intellectual activity, but with amazing physical strength, could have supported these burdens in the way the Lord Chancellor had done. He was certain that the House would gladly accord him leave.

Lord Buckmaster and the Marquis of Salisbury endorsed Lord Curzon's sentiments, and the Lord Chancellor thanked the House for giving him leave of absence.

DUBLIN AND THE PROVINCES.

NEWS FROM ALL PARTS

LORD KENMARE'S EMPLOYES.

In reference to the recent strike of Lord Kenmare's employés, a Dail Eireann Arbitration Court has decided that the men are not entitled to any increase in their present wages, which are probably the highest in Ireland considering the perquisites given to them. The half-holiday on Saturday is not allowed. It is not customary, and is not practicable in the farming industry in Ireland. There is to be seven days' notice of dismissal given by the employer and seven days' notice of leaving given by the men. One man's wages were increased from 25s. to 30s.

DUBLIN.

CANCER RESEARCH.—A report laid before a meeting of the Cancer Research Fund Committee yesterday stated that a Committee had conferred with the London Committee of the Fund, and that arrangements had been made for the publication of a memorandum setting forth the Committee decided to do to establish a research department in connection with the Skin and Cancer Hospital, Hume street, and giving full details of how the funds would be contributed and used. The Whist Drive Committee presented a report, stating that the whist drives held in aid of the Fund had been of great financial help. A successful whist drive was held in Hume House last night.

IRISH PRODUCTS LEAGUE.—The Irish Products League has received letters from Mr. Arthur Griffith and Mr. Ernest Blythe, Minister of Trade, Dail Eireann, expressing sympathy with its efforts to encourage the Irish people to support the products of their own country. It has received letters also from various manufacturers, to the effect that their trade had increased through the League's work. The League, the headquarters of which are at Cork, is making preparations to extend its activities.

LIFE INSURANCE CLAIM.—In the Dublin Republican Court yesterday Herbert Brogan, Upper Dorset street, sued the City of Dublin Assurance Company for £18 18s. in respect of additional premiums on the life of plaintiff's mother. The plaintiff had paid the premiums up to the time of his mother's death, but no policy had been issued pending the report of the medical examination. The report was unsatisfactory, and the company had declined the proposal, but the agent had not so informed the plaintiff, and had not returned the premiums. The Court gave a decree for the amount claimed with costs.

MISSIONARY GIFT DAY.—The annual missionary gift day, held yesterday in the Church Hall of Baggotrath Church, was in aid of the land. Two interesting addresses on medical mission work were given by Dr. J. C. P. Beatty, Head of the C.M.S. Hospital at Tai-Chow, China, and Dr. Emmeline Stuart, of the C.M.S. Women's Hospital, Ispahan, Persia. Miss Ivy Furlong sang and Sunday School children presented missionary scenes and dialogues. The proceeds were devoted to the Church Missionary Society.

SALE OF WORK.—The annual sale of work in connection with the Irish Ladies' Association was held yesterday in Lincoln Chambers, Lincoln place, Dublin, where clothes, linen, woollen, flowers, and cakes were offered for sale. Mrs. Connell, The Rectory, Clontarf, in opening the sale, said that the Society worked for the material, physical, and moral good of the people, successfully and unobtrusively, for over a hundred years, and wherever it went it left a blessing.

"FOOTPRINTS OF IRISH HISTORY."—A lecture, illustrated by lantern views, will be given this evening in the Parochial Hall, Belgrave square, Rathmines, Dublin, by Professor R. A. Stewart Macalister. The chair will be taken at 8 o'clock by Sir John Griffith. The proceeds of the lecture will be devoted to the work of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Dublin University Fuh-Kien Mission.

LEINSTER.

NATIONAL INSPECTOR'S TRANSFER.—Mr. W. J. Kelly, Junior Inspector of National Schools for the Counties of Wexford and Wicklow, has been transferred to a Cork circuit. At a private meeting of the Dublin Continuation Classes Committee a resolution was passed expressing appreciation of the valuable services rendered to the Committee by Mr. Kelly.

CLERAGH WAS ON FIRE.—Land on the County Kildare-Dublin border has decreased in value lately. A farm purchased a few years ago for £14,000 was put up for auction this week, but the highest bid was £7,000. A hundred men are idle in the Curragh area. These men were formerly employed by the military authorities. There is no immediate prospect of employment for them.

MUNSTER.

COMPENSATION AWARDS.—At Nenagh Quarter Sessions yesterday, Sergeant Chalcroft and Sergeant Kearns, R.I.C., were awarded £1,200 and £220 respectively for injuries received while escorting the Sheriff and his men to execute decrees at Ballywilliam in January.

ULSTER.

RIFLE ACCIDENT.—While a number of men were handling a rifle which was thought to be unloaded in the house of Joseph Young, at Coolnacrumagh, Castlederg, it went off, and the bullet struck Andrew Forbes on the chin and passed out at the back of his neck. Forbes has been removed to Tyrone County Hospital, and is expected to recover.

DAIRYING SUPERINTENDENT.—Professor R. H. Wilkinson Enniskillen, of the Department of Agriculture, has been appointed to superintend the Ulster dairying industry, under the Northern Department of Agriculture. Mr. Wilkinson has been Lecturer in the College of Science on Dairy Technology. His appointment is very popular with the farmers of the North, especially in Tyrone and Armagh, where he held sway for some years under his inspection.

"SPECIAL" SENT TO PRISON.—At Newry Quarter Sessions yesterday, Special Constable J. Rooney, Hiltown, and Joseph Reynolds, Fathbridge, were found guilty, and sentenced to six months' hard labour each on charges of receiving pipes, razors, and penknives knowing them to have been stolen. Lennon was acquitted of breaking and entering a warehouse.

Outdoor relief paid in Tullamore amounts to £35 a week, with a prospect of immediate increase.

The death is announced of Mrs. Thomas Esmonde, Ballycourcy, Enniscorthy, widow of Colonel Esmonde, V.C.

A proposal to make the National Land Bank Treasurer of the Dublin County Council was rejected at yesterday's meeting.

Enniskillen Guardians have reduced the wages of their indoor staff by 50 per cent. and the outdoor staffs, including the medical officers, by 25 per cent.

No gas is now available in Tullamore, as an electric light plant has been installed. The local infirmary is to use oil cookers.

Mr. de Valera is announced as one of the speakers at political meetings to be held in Enniscorthy and Wexford on Easter Monday.

The Donegal County Council is to take steps to give road work to unemployed men in the West Coast districts, where there is much suffering.

Special Constable J. J. Cummins, who was shot in the Clones Station attack, has returned to his home in Co. Tyrone. He has had a leg amputated.

Patrick McGinley, of Drumnakelly, was remanded at Omagh on a charge of being concerned in the raid on Pomeroy Police Barracks on Sunday.

News has been received that William J. Ryan, the wireless operator of the American airship Roma, which met with disaster a short time ago, was a native of Cappoquin, Co. Waterford.

U.S. SUPPORT FOR TREATY.

Writing to Mr. Griffith, the Hon. T. Goolrick, of Fredericksburg, Pa., greets him, Mr. Collins, and all those in authority for their splendid patriotic service for all Ireland in the Free State. He believed that he represented the sentiment and opinion of 90 per cent. of the real, substantial friends of Ireland in the United States. The peace, prosperity, and progress of Ireland is, in his opinion, involved in the acceptance by Ireland of the Treaty. He trusted that the Free State Government would receive an overwhelming majority at the elections, and he expressed the opinion that Mr. de Valera was making a cruel, grave, and inexcusable mistake and unaccountable error in opposing the Free State, and that he was rapidly losing the friends he made in the United States.

The following cablegram from New York was received by Rialtas Sealadach na hEireann yesterday:—

"Philadelphia County and City Board Hibernians, four hundred delegates present, unanimously endorsed Irish Free State. The Board does represent thousands of Irish with generally divergent views.—Sullivan."

"GOOD HOUSEKEEPING."

The April number of Good Housekeeping, the new magazine for women, which has just been issued, contains stories by John Galsworthy, Kathleen Norris, and Fanny Heaslip Lea, in addition to serials by W. J. Locke and Robert Hichens. There are also several special articles which make the magazine one of interest to women interested in home, or family, or dress, or any of the numerous things which appeal to the feminine mind.

GUINNESS' FIRST CLASS CLERKSHIPS.—Candidates should note that all the 6 appointments at the last examination and 22 of the 24 appointments offered at the 3 previous examinations were gained by pupils of Roan College, Stephen's Green, Dublin.—(Advt.)

DUBLIN MURDER.

TWO MEN ATTACKED

BELFAST'S BIG DEATH TOLL.

A PRIVATE VENDETTA.

Although the general situation in Belfast considerably improved during the past few days, the authorities, says our Correspondent, are still very anxious regarding the conditions in several localities. A considerable amount of intimidation is being practised, in which both sides share responsibility.

The shootings, fortunately, show signs of diminution, but the gunmen are not entirely inactive, and occasional shots are fired in the disturbed areas.

Yesterday there were two casualties as a result of such shooting.

James Lyle, a native of Dromore, County Down, was shot through the chest yesterday morning at the corner of Joy street and Ormeau avenue. He resides at Ramport street, Dromore, but is engaged by several Belfast firms to keep machinery in repair, and for this purpose visits Belfast every morning. He was going to do some work for a firm at the corner of Ormeau avenue and Joy street, and was about to enter the premises by the side door when two men approached and asked if he was Mr. Kyle. He replied that his name was Lyle. Both men produced revolvers, but Lyle charged them between them.

WOUNDED IN THE STOMACH

Six shots were fired in quick succession, and at point-blank range. The first bullet struck Lyle near the stomach, the exit being at the side. Another entered the right hand. He immediately ran towards Ormeau avenue, whence he was taken to the Royal Victoria Hospital.

The bullet, which had entered the body, was found in his clothing. His condition is serious, but is not regarded as critical. He is a married man, with four children.

Later in the day William Moore, aged 21, who resides at Ashmore street, was attacked by a number of men near Springfield dam, and was stated to be a Protestant. Revolver shots were fired at him, and he was wounded in the body. He was detained at the Royal Victoria Hospital.

A MONTH'S DEATHS.

Mr. Jack Dempsey, of Mountcollyer avenue, who was shot on Sunday night, died in the Mater Infirmorum Hospital early yesterday morning. This makes the sixtieth death which has taken place in Belfast during the month of March. The majority of the victims were Roman Catholics.

In connection with the death of Samuel Mullan, of 67 Havana street, who was found dead on the Crumlin road, it is stated that he was a Protestant. Mullan was out of work, and was in receipt of weekly payments from a charitable fund administered from the Hibernian Hall, Falls road.

While standing in a queue at this place he was taken away by at least eight men, and taken up Whitecrook road, shot. There is a certain amount of mystery about this shooting. It is alleged that it has no political significance, but is the result of a private vendetta.

PROFESSIONAL BEGGARS.

SPEAKING OF THE CITY STREETS.

Speaking yesterday in Dublin at the meeting of the Association of Charities, the Rev. T. A. Finlay, S.J., said that, with regard to street beggars, it was calculated that a man travelling for a few days in some of the principal streets of London would have to face scores of collecting boxes, and it was estimated that fully £100,000 was used by these methods in one year in London.

If that was the case in London, now that poverty was assuming such an ostentatious form, what might they expect in a city such as Dublin? They might congratulate the poor of Dublin on the ingenuity they displayed in presenting their cases. If they displayed the same amount of ingenuity in promoting industry as they did in asking charity, they should be, in a short time, one of the leading industrial countries in the world. The various forms of application were worthy of study. There was the begging letter writer, the beggar who frequented a certain "beat," the organiser of flag days for his own benefit, and, lastly, those who appealed for charity by the production of a repulsive bodily condition. These should be dealt with in a very vigorous way. If that organisation could prevent fraud, and direct the sympathies of the public so that they would reach those deserving of them, they would have done a very good work.

Miss Story presided at the meeting, and the annual report stated that grants of money are entrusted to the Association for special persons by affiliated societies and subscribers. To avoid overlapping, other agencies interested in the recipients are notified, and in many cases their collaboration is invited in the disposal of the grants.

STILL FUNCTIONING.

OFFICIALS AT DUBLIN CASTLE.

In the House of Commons yesterday, Colonel Gretton asked for information as to the circumstances of the murder of two R.I.C. men at Crossmaglen, Co. Armagh, and as to the attack upon Belcoo Police Barracks, and the kidnapping of policemen there, and whether any arrests had been made.

Sir Hamar Greenwood said that this and another question by Viscount Curzon were telegraphed to Ireland, and had received a reply stating that, with the exception of the attack near Dublin on four British officers, none of whom was injured, and the seizure of a general's motor car, both of which were contrary to the British military authorities in Dublin, no official reports of outrages had been received.

The military authorities had no evidence of the attack on four British officers made from an ex-military lorry.

Colonel Gretton—Who is the sender of that telegram?

Sir Hamar Greenwood said that it came from a British official in Dublin Castle, who was in communication with the military authorities. He reminded the House of the increasing difficulty of getting specific information of a given outrage from any part of Ireland.

Colonel Ashley—Has not Dublin Castle been taken over by the Provisional Government, and what is a British official doing there?

Sir Hamar Greenwood—Until the Bill, which I hope will be before the House at an early date, becomes an Act, certain officials of His Majesty's Government are still functioning in Ireland.

Replying to Colonel Gretton, Major Barnston said that no arrests had yet been made in connection with the Galway murders of 15th inst., or the more recent murder of ex-Sergeant Gloster.

In the case of the raid on Kilmanaheen Rectory, Ennistymon, investigations had resulted in the recovery of the stolen property to the extent of £111, but none of the culprits had been arrested. The number of arrests for various crimes made under the authority of the Provisional Government was considerable.

IMMEDIATE DISBANDMENT.

At a Ballymena meeting of district delegates of the R.I.C., it was decided to protest at once against the decision of the Irish Provisional Government pending disbandment. They were an Imperial force, and had no obligation to any other Government, and refused to serve any other without consent. They, therefore, demanded their disbandment forthwith, and, pending such, to be relieved from duty and taken to suitable centres as was done in the case of their Southern comrades. In addition, they desired to point out that the compensation terms were extremely disappointing to men who had sacrificed so much in the performance of their duties, and they were prepared, whatever the consequences, to stand by their comrades in Dublin and elsewhere in any decision they may arrive at in their efforts to obtain justice.

TELEGRAPH OFFICES IN IRELAND

As an instance of the difficulties which Ministers of the Provisional Government were up against when they took up office, it may be of interest to know that the Postmaster General was faced with the task of restoring communication at over 270 offices, which had been isolated telegraphically during the campaign which preceded the Truce, considerable damage having been done to the lines in many cases. Notwithstanding the shortage of materials, poles, etc., he has now succeeded in having the facilities at about 150 offices restored, and hopes that the remainder will be completed in the course of the next few weeks.

BEATEN AND KIDNAPPED.

At the Strabane Quarter Sessions, John Meehan, Scraghey, Castlederg, was awarded £20 compensation for injuries arising out of kidnapping. He alleged that armed men asked him to sign a paper. They knocked him unconscious when he did not do it, and carried him off in a motor car. He remained for four days in a house, and a woman whom he did not know dressed the wound on his head.

GAS FINANCE.

FAVOURABLE AND ADVERSE FEATURES.

At the annual meeting of the Alliance and Dublin Consumers Gas Company yesterday at the offices of the company, D'Olier street, Dublin, the Right Hon. Laurence A. Waldron, who presided, expressed regret at the absence of the Chairman of the company (Mr. John Murray) through illness, and hoped that he would soon be restored to health. He hoped that they might look forward to having before long a stable government installed in this country, as well as to prosperity throughout Ireland, assuming that Labour lent its assistance in the effort for the common good. Common-sense and fair play must be adopted in the settlement of Labour disputes, and by both parties meeting and fairly discussing the situation, difficulties might be solved and strikes averted. Owing to the great increase in the cost of living, wages had been raised to an uneconomic level, and the gas industry was no longer able to bear it without injury to trade and the curtailment of business.

Happily, he believed they had seen the worst, and the cost of living was now appreciably lower. Turning to the accounts, there were two outstanding features of the half-year's working —one favourable and the other adverse. The former was the satisfactory increase in the quantity of gas sold for all purposes, which amounted to over 27 million cubic feet; two millions was the additional quantity consumed through the use of electric power. The latter represented the increased quantity sold to prepayment consumers, while the remaining five millions was a serious decline in revenue from the company's by-products—a reduction from £112,456 to £83,652—and had it not been for the exercise of the greatest care and foresight, the results would have been still less favourable. The capital account showed a satisfactory position. The actual amount expended had only been £1,667 5s. 3d., while the sales, depreciation, and credits totalled £8,629 2s. 7d., this again reducing the total expenditure by £6,582 2s. 4d., which was a step in the right direction. As to the revenue account, it was rather disappointing to find that the cost of coal and oil showed but a trifling reduction of £2,135, while on the other side residuals had fallen by £22,804, thus making the net cost of coal £64,565 this half-year as against £37,696 for the corresponding period, or a net increase of no less than £26,869. The explanation lay in the fact that the company secured very little advantage from the fall which took place in the price of coal at the pit, because high-priced stocks had to be used up, and, further, owing to the slump in freights they did not get the benefit of the large profits earned by their steamers, as in former occasions.

NO NEED FOR PESSIMISM.

There was no occasion, however, for pessimism. Only a few months ago the company had passed through the greatest coal dispute which had ever affected Great Britain, and the effects of the half-year's working afforded evidence of their strong financial position generally. Repair and maintenance of works showed the welcome reduction of £12,290, but that charge might still be regarded as abnormal, as it included exceptional expenditure with a view to bringing their works to a high standard of efficiency. The expenditure on distribution was down by £7,000, the saving being effected principally on mains. Each item under the heading of rent, rates, and taxes showed some increase, although happily not a substantial one. They hoped that the present figures represented the high water mark, and that concerted action by all local authorities would result in the relief for which all ratepayers anxiously awaited.

As a result of negotiations, the company secured a reduction of 4s. per week in the wages payable to its employés. They could not claim that this small reduction was commensurate with the fall in the cost of living, nor could they say that it compared favourably with what had been accepted by gas employés on the other side of the water. They were not without hope, however, that further concessions would be secured by negotiation, and preferably by some arrangement whereby wages were regulated on a sliding scale based on the cost of living. War bonus alone, excluding the normal pre-war wages, still cost them 1s. 2d. per ton of the present price of gas. With regard to the balance sheet, the company's funds had increased by upwards of £7,000, while their liabilities to the Corporation and sundry creditors had fallen by almost £40,0000. This improvement, however, was more than counterbalanced by the reduction in value of their stock.

Concluding, the chairman said that it was not possible to reduce the price of gas by 2d. per therm, or 4d. per 1,000 c.ft., as from the December quarter. This was a substantial reduction of 10 per cent., and, unless circumstances altered by the adverse residual market, yet it might be possible to continue, if not increase, it. It would mean a saving to the consumers of no less than £57,000 per annum. As to the future, he believed that the tide had turned, and that they had every reason for confidence in the company's prospects. He moved the adoption of the report and balance sheet.

Mr. W. H. Davies seconded the motion.

Mr. Maguire said that the high price of gas was an obstacle to increased consumption, and was of opinion that there would be a reduction in the near future.

Mr. R. J. Kelly, K.C., said that a reduction of 10 per cent. in the price of gas was a distinct benefit for consumers, and he trusted they would be able next year to make a further reduction as a result of the decreased cost of coal.

The motion was unanimously adopted.

On the motion of the Chairman, seconded by Mr. W. H. Davies, a dividend was declared at the rate of 7s. 6d. per cent. per annum.

Messrs. F. J. Dickens and W. H. Davies, who retired by rotation, were re-elected directors, and Mr. Louis O'Connor was elected auditor to the company.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

THE BELFAST DISORDERS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—As a Southern Protestant, I heartily endorse all the eulogies of our Catholic countrymen; but would it not be a good thing if our protest could be lifted from the region of "mere platonic form"? I suggest that Southern Protestants start a fund to assist Catholic refugees who have been forced from their homes and employment by the action of our co-religionists in the North. This seems to me the best form that our protest could take.—Yours, etc.,

"PROTESTANT."

Dublin, March 30th, 1922.

THE ROYAL IRISH CONSTABULARY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—I wish to draw attention to an inaccuracy in your issue of to-day, where it is stated that on disbandment unmarried men will get one month's pay, and married men will get two months', and in certain cases three months' pay, as "compensation." The Government have not agreed to pay one penny as compensation. The grant referred to is simply an allowance for the purpose of enabling men to remove to a new home, and this cannot be regarded as a great concession. Some of the money may have to be returned, and in many cases may not be granted at all.

The R.I.C. were confident that the Government, in view of their services in the past and present uncertainty, and in most cases precarious, condition, would agree to the principle of compensation for every man in addition to pension, and they are keenly disappointed and discontented at their refusal.—Yours, etc.,

"DISBANDER."

Dublin, March 30th, 1922.

GLEBE CHARGES AND EXPENSES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—Many clergy of the Church of Ireland—perhaps some of other denominations also—are sorely hit by charges for rent on their houses and land, for repairs, and for interest on loans for necessary improvements. May I now allow me to make in your columns a suggestion which I have been advocating for several years past—namely, that the collections on Easter Day should be given to free the clergy in every parish as far as possible, from these charges? Most of our clergy receive their stipends from the office of the Representative Church Body, or the Board of Superintendence, or from 'S2 St. Stephen's Green, Dublin. I think that I am correct in saying that in most cases there are considerable charges due from the parish for rent and interest on loans. These sums are automatically deducted from every remittance of income before the clergy receive a penny of it. In the Armagh Diocese alone about £1,200 is deducted in this way every year.

My suggestion is that the churchwardens in every parish should ascertain how much is due for these charges from their own parish, and should arrange that the collections on Easter Day or the following Sunday should be given to pay the interest on these charges. If the parish is so fortunate as to have no charges of the kind, there will probably be rates and taxes to pay. A simple method of giving notice is to place it on the church doors on the Sunday before Easter, which in this year will be the 9th April.—Yours, etc.,

A POULTRY SHOW.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—May I suggest to the Council of the Royal Dublin Society through the medium of your paper that they should institute a poultry exhibition at Ballsbridge in August as an additional attraction to their Horse Show programme? The section would receive the support of all Irish poultry breeders.—Yours, etc.,
